

Custom and standard solutions can meet most weight, size, space and unique package requirements.

The Orion Advantage

Orion Packaging Systems designs and manufactures automatic and semi-automatic, stretch-wrapping equipment. For more than 15 years, Orion has been in the business of protecting customers' products. Our goal is to provide the highest quality industrial stretch-wrapping systems in the industry. With more than 25 standard models, we offer the most comprehensive line of stretch wrappers available, all of which continually set the standard for durability, efficiency, flexibility, reliability and performance.

Orion's Insta-Thread™ (used on most models) uses advanced technology to consistently elongate stretch film between two specially textured rollers, and has variable output speed to control the amount of film fed to the load during the wrap cycle. This provides for an evenly wrapped and effectively unitized load at every point on the load.

Insta-Thread™ technology means consistent performance strength, speed and reliability.

Orion's MA-X rotary tower stretch wrapper is an excellent choice for high-production level applications which demand maximum speed, efficiency and long-term durability.
